

Harassment

What is harassment?

Harassment can take many forms. It includes slogans daubed on walls; abuse used in arguments; rubbish dumped on doorsteps; stone throwing; abusive literature sent through the post; wilful damage to property or physical attack, etc. Some neighbour disputes may also stem from, or lead to, incidents of harassment.

Harassment is a ground for eviction.

In the Tenancy Agreement a clause is included which places an obligation on tenants not to harass or cause a nuisance to neighbours. We are prepared to take court action against those who break their tenancy agreement in this way - action which could lead to eviction if harassment is proved.

What to do if you believe you are being harassed:

- Contact your local Police Station immediately.
- Report any incidents to CRHA, preferably (but not necessarily) by letter. Ask for an interview with your Housing Officer.

Do not, on any account, give up your accommodation without consulting CRHA.
